Constructor Denmark will be there when the biggest technology and industry expo in Scandinavia opens the doors on 3rd October.

With more than 6,203 organisations, 16,819 visitors and 615 exhibitors in 2015 this expo sets the frame for knowledge sharing, inspiration, business and network for everyone working within or related to the industry.

Hi consists of six sub-expos, representing six branches of the industry - creating an environment in compliance with the changes of digitalisation.

Constructor will be showcasing the Tornado machine, the MOVO mobile pallet racking, as well as standard shelving including accessories, and pallet racking. The racking will be equipped with different safety accessories, intending to lead the way to a conversation about warehouse safety in general, and particularly a talk about the mandatory rack inspection.

Automation being a hot topic these days in the world of logistics, Constructor will have live demonstrations of the Tornado machine throughout the exhibition, introducing the visitors to the many advantages of automating the picking process in the warehouse.

Even small articles can differ, and so the P90 sprinkler bracket has been awarded three stars in the hi MARKS programme, which is the best assessment a product news can obtain.

The newly designed P90 sprinkler bracket can be fitted directly onto the uprights of the pallet racks. This eliminates the problem of the sprinkler system's pipework bending and getting damaged.

Michael Sahl, country manager, says: "This expo is a very important opportunity for us to meet both existing and new customers. In these days of digitalisation, we see that there is still a need to meet in the real world, and that many of our visitors have a real requirement for material handling equipment of some kind, when they visit the stand."
